Council Okays Tax Rate

City Ad Valorem Remains At $1.60; Fireman Heard

The City Council Tuesday approved resolutions adopting the same $1.60 per $100 city ad valorem tax rate, and $1 per person city poll tax.

Councilmen also heard Don G. Humble, president of the Cameron Volunteer Fire Dept., request that official action be taken to insure easy access to fires and plenty of working room around fire-stricken areas for city firemen.

Officials noted that residents follow the fire truck to the scene of the fires and sometimes block access to the area with parked cars.

Onlookers in their interest in a fire can block the work of volunteer firemen, Humble said.

Fred Schmidt also appeared in behalf of the Cameron Fire Dept. Stricter control of traffic around fire areas was called for by Council members.

Councilmen also discussed methods of clearing shrubs and high growth at street intersections for better driving visibility.

Chief Homer Johnson was instructed to contact some property owners in Cameron to ask that they trim down shrubs to provide better visibility at intersections and help avoid accidents, city officials reported.

Mayor Coleman Duncum reported that Lamar Street paving was completed this week, an area of about five blocks.

Councilmen also discussed the possibility of having new plat maps made of the city, but no definite action was taken Tuesday night.

And Councilmen heard letters from several area city governments explaining costs of police car operation, which showed cost factors similar to those of the Cameron Police Dept.

The Council also authorized the purchase of rear tires for the city's GMC truck.

It has been some time since we knew anything about the basic elements of the universe. When last we knew, there were 92 elements the 92nd being uranium or the stuff that sends cities up in clouds of radio activity.

But, by chance, (how else?) we noticed an up-to-date listing of all 101 elements known to man.

If you can name them without pecking, you get 101 for your efforts, which is purely coincidental in its similarity to the title of this column.

101 - 101 - 101

We quote: 93 - Neptunium, 94 - Plutonium, 95 - Americium, 96 - Curium, 97 - Berkelium, 98 - Californium, 99 - Einsteinium, 100 - Fermium, and 101 - Mendelevium.

With element No. 96, the element namers ran out of titles like Neptunium and Pluto and turned to some hallowed names of science such as Curie, Berkeley, Einstein, Fermi and Mendel.

101 - 101 - 101

If we had known there were as many elements as years in The Herald's history, we might have entitled this string of type with a more fanciful name.

Can't you visualize the mood of the column being dignified by a new description instead of numbers with the changing years? Maybe like:

Melancholia . . . or Numbium . . . or better yet . . . Memorandum . . . Cameron Highlightia . . .

101 - 101 - 101

We are expecting another visit from a fellow south of the border who is interested in machinery. He is a very clever fellow.

Since his last visit in 1958, when he bought a press from The Herald we have been wondering how well he speaks English. When he agreed to a transaction, he put down his American dollars, smiled a big smile and asked for document to be typed out showing a bill of sales.

Prior to completion of the transaction, the conversation had been through interpreters, both assuming that neither spoke the other man's language. He was curiously lacking in understanding when we pointed out advantages of the equipment. He did seem interested, but preferred to rustle crisp American currency instead.

He felt, we suppose, that money, like music, is a universal language. To some, it talks plainly. Yes, he is an interesting guy.

Funds Needed For NMH Drive

A sense of urgency prevailed at Newton Hospital fund headquarters this week as the fund drive reached $48,500.

A final 10-day effort to reach $10,000 beyond the minimum goal was underway as officials appealed for additional pledges to top the minimum $50,000 needed to meet higher construction costs.

"Unless further pledges and contributions are forthcoming in the next few days," officials said "all bids will have to be rejected and the project will be permanently lost."

Bids opened about two weeks ago averaged about $50,000 above anticipated building costs.

Appeals were out for pledges and donations ranging from 10 to $200 to $25 at $10 apiece.

A pledge of $1 per month for 36 months would greatly assist in reaching our goal, officials said.

Need for additional local funds delayed plans to close the fund headquarters in downtown Cameron.

Officials again expressed appreciation to the more than 220 contributors who have already pledged or donated to the Newton Memorial Hospital fund drive. Included are business and individual contributions from Cameron and other parts of the county.

Donations of any amount are appreciated and important to successful completion of the drive, officials continued.

Construction of the hospital would replace the frame buildings now housing the Newton Memorial Hospital on W. Fourth St. A new one - floor, four - wing brick structure will replace the present buildings when the fund drive is complete.

New Mail Load Hits Post Office

following US 77.

Hays says special mail pouches are made up in Cameron for Rockdale, Giddings, LaGrange, Schulenberg, Hallettsville, Shiner, Yoakum and Cuero.

Mail from these South Texas towns comes to Cameron for disposition by Santa Fe west to Temple, Brownwood and other cities, Hays notes.

The consolidation of mail service represents using Cameron's central location in terms of rail and highway location and service. Hays also reports that all Minerva mail is delivered on Cameron Rural Route 3 and is brought in by 5 p. m. by the star route.

Hired as night clerk is James Price, Gaylon McCoy is driving one of the star routes in contract with the Post Office Department, Hays said.

Last year the Cameron Post Office handled 1,339,000 pieces of outgoing mail and more than two million pieces of incoming mail, the Postmaster pointed out.

Brady Resigns

Principal Post;

Yoe Bid Awarded

Leon Brady, elementary principal of Cameron schools for a number of years, Friday night submitted a letter of resignation upon medical advice.

His letter of resignation was accepted by the Cameron school board in a meeting Friday night where bids were opened for construction of a new 33x8 pressbox at Yoe Field.

Supt. Earl Knebel said Brady's resignation, due to reasons of health, came as a surprise to board officials and the school administration.

Brady had been principal of Ada Henderson and Ben Milam Schools for the past several years. He was preparing to open another school term this fall.

The board also approved a bid of $2,800 for the new pressbox on the South Stands of Yoe Field. Low bidder was Wiese Lumber Co., Cameron.

It will have aluminum siding, have small wall panel heating and seating for 25 members of the press, radio and public address game staff. The old pressbox, built of wood, housed about 12 people.

Air conditioning was not called for in the bid and will only be available in the pressbox if a special donation is made after the pressbox is completed, officials said.

The pressbox will be completed in 12 working days by August 31.

Knebel said that a successor for the elementary principal's post was being sought this week.

Civil Defense Program

Mayor Cites Plan

Mayor Coleman Duncum declared August Civil Defense Month in Cameron prior to opening of the first classes on civil defense in Cameron.

James Luckey, Cameron, will instruct Cameron and county residents in special courses beginning about August 15 at the Agriculture Bldg. of Yoe High School.

Both the City Council and the Cameron School Board have endorsed the program of public education on measures to be applied in good civil defense procedures, officials said.

The Cameron Three Arts Club will sponsor a special series on Civil Defense in The Cameron Herald later this year.

The program of civil defense is being implemented to acquaint Cameron and Milam County residents with the procedures to follow in case of attack or catastrophe.

Luckey told The Herald that courses last about two hours per session. He has received training in presenting the courses in special sessions sponsored by National Defense authorities in Central Texas.

Duncum's declaration and City Council plans to attend the meetings en masse set the stage for the first city-wide program of its kind.

Guard Unit Wins Honors At Hood

Members of Milam County's National Guard unit, Company C, 3rd Medium Tank Battalion, came home from North Fort Hood early Sunday morning from the unit's thirteenth - and most successful - summer camp.

The team, representing the 3rd Medium Tank Battalion, fought its way into the quarter finals in half a dozen games. In the semi-finals it clobbered an Artillery unit team 11 - 1 and won the Division championship from a Missile unit team from Dallas by a score of 6-3.

Three Company C members - First Sgt. Peter F. Kunz, Staff Sgt. Donald W. Culp and P4 Harlan Mees - played on the winning team. Sgt. Culp's outstanding pitching was credited with a large measure in the victory.

Although all the figures are not yet in, Company C is believed to be rated near the top

Pastor Describes Tut's Tomb

(This is the first of a series of articles by the pastor of the Marlow Baptist Church on his tour of the Middle East and Europe. He is on a six weeks tour of the Holy Land area and Western Europe. - Ed.)

By A. W. McGregor
CAIRO, Egypt - I did not have to go to the Valley of the Kings or to visit King Tut's tomb (Tutankhamen's) to see the treasures that came out of his burial place. They are contained in the National Museum of Cairo in two long galleries within the museum and in a specially constructed room where the most precious jewels and gold ornaments are kept.

To give one an estimate of the value of the treasures that came out of Tut's 33-century-old sepulcher, our guide told us that a solid gold cane had been stolen in recent years and it was worth a million and a half dollars.

The only thing left in King Tut's actual tomb is his mummified body in a sarcophagus. It was found intact, though in many other tombs in the Valley of Kings the many Pharaohs' mummies have been hacked and cut to pieces by robbers.

If you were to look into the story of a Pharaoh's tomb such as King Tut's, the story would go something like this:

Near Kuxor, 316 miles south of Cairo, in the heart of ancient Egypt, are the ruins of the great Temple of Karnack and the Valley of the Kings across the Nile.

Here in the Valley, ancient grave robbers have opened 62 of the sepulchers and stolen all that may be of any value.

But in 1922, an archaeologist, Dr. Howard Carter, sank a shaft into an underground room that turned out to be the tomb of King Tut. He soon uncovered an Egyptian royal burial in all of its magnificence.

In four small rooms were jewels and treasures and funeral equipment worth millions in actual value and hundreds of millions in historic value. It was the first time the complete story of the ancient Pharaohs' burial practices was disclosed to modern eyes. The tomb had remained practically undisturbed for 33 centuries. King Tut was of the 18th dynasty and reigned over Egypt about 1,300 years before Christ.

The greater part of King Tut's treasures lay intact, since they were too large for earlier robbers to push through small holes used to gain entrance.

The four rooms held gold chariots, couches, a solid gold throne, innumerable jewels, wooden folding beds, gold corselets, caskets full of gems and hundreds of gold ornaments, jewelry, ivory and celite objects of value.

The larger burial chamber was piled high with royal furniture that King Tut was to enjoy in his second life. The king's body bore 143 ornaments and each finger and toe was encased in a gold sheath. A gold diadem set with jewels was on his head.

He was buried in seven coffins, the four outer structures perhaps more properly called shrines, varying in size from 11x17x9 feet downward. They varied also in construction from gold, solid quartzite to gold overlay.

King Tut was about 18 to 20 years of age when he died. He was the son - in - law of the previous Pharaoh, having married his daughter when she was about 10 and he about 12. Tut ruled over Egypt for about eight years.

This is one of the many stories out of Egypt's past.

I have traveled in Lebanon, Syria and Jordan, all in the Middle East, since leaving Egypt.

Grain Crop Less Than '59 Season, Buyers Report

The first bales of cotton came into gins at Thorndale and Buckholts last week while maize began to pour into grain storage facilities across the county.

Grain buyers indicated that the Milam maize crop would be about two - thirds of the total production of 1959, primarily due to increased cotton acreage, corn production and soil bank influence.

Both Cameron grain concerns told The Herald that maize was satisfactory in quality.

Estimates showed that about 5,000 more acres were available for cotton this year with additional 3,500 - acre allotments coming to Milam County from eastern counties and an increase of about 1,200 acres due to refiguring this county's cotton allotment program.

County Agent J. D. Moore said that grain producers were happy not to get the Tuesday rain that fell in the Temple area and threatened to fall in Milam County. It would have increased the moisture content in maize besides slowing the harvest, currently underway.

Moore said that the recent high temperatures have opened bolts ahead of time. Early estimates of the cotton crop this year went as high as 22,000 bales.

Mr. Vansa, of Marak, brought in the first bale of cotton to a Buckholts gin, officials noted. A number of bales had been ginned last week at Thorndale.

A large crop of watermelons came in the Rockdale area last week, totaling about a half - million dollars in value.

Officials said that additional melons could be marketed if grown in Milam County.

ElmCreekLeaders Still Determined

Directors of the Elm Creek Watershed Authority met recently to canvass returns of the recent election which failed to give approval of a $5,500,000 federal improvement project on the watershed.

A resolution was passed unanimously saying directors "enthusiasm and purpose to complete this project are as determined as before."

The watershed leaders agreed to meet soon to discuss plans for presenting the program to the voters again - no date being set for the meeting or for any proposed election.

Soil Conservation Service work unit representative Carl Young advised the authority directors that the SCS assured them the Elm Creek federal priority was "intact." Young said the authority's program was "in just as good a position as before the election."

Directors and Authority Chairman Buster Griffin discussed the Saturday election results and generally agreed that intensified educational plans were essential for further advancement of the program.

Voters Saturday turned down a maintenance tax proposal to care for 61 federally - financed dams to be built in the watershed area. They also turned down bonds necessary for easements, legal work relocation of roads, utilities, etc.

tion 351 to 323 and the bond question 352 to 322 - margins of 28 and 30 votes respectively.

The affected area covers 192,900 acres of watershed in Central Texas.

Walter Lester Named To FHA Committee

Appointment of Walter H. Lester as a member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee was announced this week by William H. Gaston, the agency's county supervisor serving Milam and Burleson counties.

Lester operates Cameron Seed Company and has livestock interests. He has had considerable experience in livestock production.

Two other members make up the 3 - member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers needs. The other two members are Frank J. Jahn of Rt. 1, Burlington and Joe K. Martin of Rt. 1, Milano. John will serve as committee chairman during the next fiscal year.

Each member is appointed for a 3 - year term. Lester succeeds Wallace A. Conn whose 3 - year term expired this year.

Decision Time On Cotton Harvest Near

COLLEGE STATION — The time for harvesting this year's cotton crop is fast approaching, and the farmer should be considering how this harvesting is to be done. If the crop is to be machine harvested, the problem arises of whether it would be better to own or hire the machine.

Cecil Parker, extension farm management specialist, says that often it is cheaper to have the crop custom harvested than it is to own the equipment. By hiring the custom work, the farmer can avoid the investment in machinery and use the capital elsewhere in the farm business.

The farmer's labor problem is tased if the custom operator is furnished all the labor for the job. Also, because the custom operator is skilled in operating and maintaining the machinery the farmer may get a faster, more efficient job, Parker points out.

Before deciding on hiring custom work, however, the farmer must make sure that the answer to each of the following questions is "yes." Is equipment for custom work available? Will it be available when I need it? Are the operators dependable and efficient?

A machine may be purchased, however, with the idea of doing custom work in addition to personal work. This would lower the farmer's cost of harvesting his own crop, Parker continues. Other factors, such as alternative use of labor and capital, should be considered before the farmer decides between owning or hiring a machine.

Parker suggests talking with the local county agent before any decision is made.

Management Needed To Reduce Root Rot

COLLEGE STATION — Plan several years in advance to effectively reduce cotton root rot, advises Dr. Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist. Root rot losses of cotton can be reduced. However, a combination of practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results.

Deep plowing this year will help in most cases to reduce the disease next year. The turning under of a large tonnage of organic matter prior to growing cotton will help. The growing of resistant crops in rotation also helps. However, none of these are a sure control when used alone.

For example, rains immediately following the deep plowing will tend to cancel out the benefits of disease reduction. Too, crop rotation helps little if susceptible weeds grow in resistant crops.

Producing early cotton will, in most cases, help the cotton to escape root rot damage. Several factors are important in producing early cotton including the control of seedling diseases.

For additional information, contact your extension agent and request a copy of the publication MP-361, "Root Rot Losses of Cotton can be Reduced."

Frozen Food Consumption Up
Frozen foods consumed by U.S. civilians during the 30 - year period 1952 - 54, increased ninefold, and canned food consumption increased by 275 percent, reports John G. McHeay, extension economist.

Weimar resident, Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, says "GLADIOLA is a must for yeast baking"

Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, Weimar, Texas

Encouraged by friends who tasted her delightful Glazed Raisin Loaf, Mrs. L. G. Ringgenberg, Route 3, Weimar, Texas, entered her recipe in the GLADIOLA'S "yeast bread" Baking-Recipe-of-the-Month Contest.

Upon learning that her recipe had won first prize, Mrs. Ringgenberg exclaimed, "I've never won anything in my life . . . and now here I am, the big winner."

One of the secrets of Mrs. Ringgenberg's yeast baking is GLADIOLA Special Hard Wheat Flour . . . with natural strength and character that guarantees uniform good texture whenever yeast breads are baked.

Mrs. Ringgenberg, who looks forward to baking the recipes found inside GLADIOLA flour packages, says, "I really love GLADIOLA flour, and it isn't just talk . . . I've tried almost every brand of flour and I always go back to GLADIOLA. I use it in all of my baking."

GLAZED RAISIN LOAF (1 LOAF)

Gladiola's Baking-Recipe-of-the-Month

MRS. L. G. RINGGENBERG'S GLAZED RAISIN LOAF

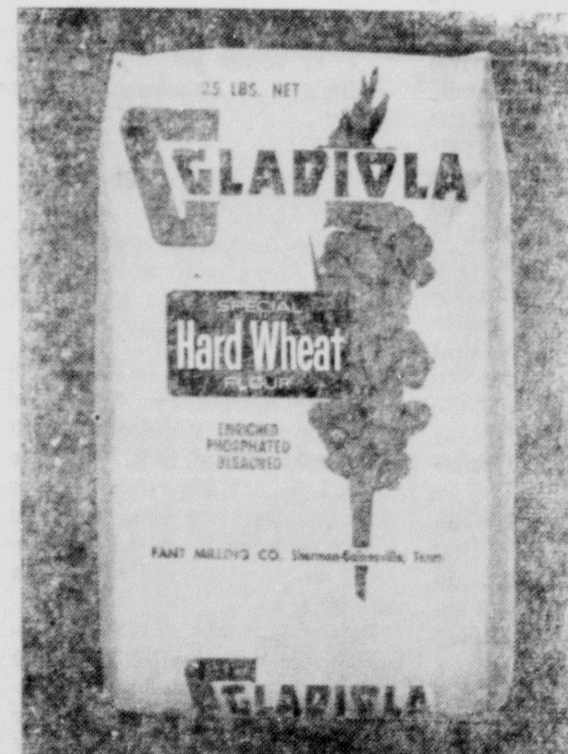

1 cup seedless raisins	1 teaspoon salt	1 cake compressed yeast
1/4 cup soft butter	1/2 cup scalded milk	1/4 cup lukewarm water
1/4 cup sugar		2 eggs, well beaten
4 cups (about) sifted GLADIOLA Special Hard Wheat Flour

Combine raisins, butter, sugar, and salt in mixing bowl; add scalded milk, stir well, then cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add yeast, eggs, and 1 cup flour to cooled raisin mixture and beat until smooth; add remaining flour gradually, beating well, to make a medium soft dough. Cover and let rest 10 minutes, then knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, adding more flour as necessary to prevent sticking. Place dough in a greased bowl, turn to grease surface of dough, cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Punch down and let rest 10 minutes; shape into a loaf and place in a greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Cover and let rise until almost double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) about 30 minutes or until done. When loaf is sufficiently brown, cover lightly with foil to finish baking. Cool and glaze top with thin powdered sugar icing.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Expire On August 31

By Vern Sanford
Your hunting and fishing licenses expire on August 31. Together they will cost you $5.30 - $2.15 for the fishing license and $3.15 for your hunting permit. Combined, they cost you no more than the price of four or five lures, or a few boxes of shells. A mighty good investment, I'd say.

Ever stop to think what these licenses mean to you - in pleasure, relaxation, fellowship? It's a truly great pleasure to hunt and fish. Furthermore, these outdoors activities provide the greatest source of mental and physical relaxation ever conceived. And speaking of fellowship - man, if you want to make friends - hundreds of them - just grab a gun or some fishing gear and head for the woods and lakes. You'll meet more people of all walks of life in the shortest time ever - even before you wet a hook or fire a shell.

And once you rub elbows with them you'll come to know them more intimately than by any other manner of introduction.

Greatest advantage of the great outdoors is the fact that rich and poor look and act alike. There's no "high-toning" when you're roughing it. There's no playing favorites. The millionaire is likely to be the poorest dressed of the lot. Fact of the matter is, it's about the only way he can get out of the "Dudey - dude" and become a down-to-earth fellow, just like the chap across the tracks.

But this five bucks or more which you pay for those licenses, does something else too. It pays the salaries of trained specialists in wildlife management. It hires biologists, wardens and other expert personnel for the Game and Fish Commission.

These men do marvelous jobs. They are the ones who are largely responsible for the fish and game being with us today - in greater abundance - for all to enjoy. They set up the controls that prolong the life and increase the species of the various types of fish and wildlife.

Furthermore, they do their best to see to it that these controls are adhered to. This for your own hunting and fishing pleasure tomorrow and the tomorrows to come.

A recent article by Ernest Swift in Conservation News, a publication of the National Wildlife Federation, proposes strict controls in discussing skills in the art of hunting and fishing. Swift said that one nationally noted hunter had remarked that "prairie chicken hunting was the sport of gentlemen, but that gentlemen had just about disappeared before a rash of gadget-crazed men."

He goes on to say that "State conservation departments will have to take a large share of the blame for making the sport of hunting and fishing the mediocre recreation that it has become." Then he cites motor trolling, put-and-take fishing, pen-released pheasants before the gun and access roads to every lake, as designed to entice more license buyers.

TAKING THE LONG VIEW

... is a MUST for a Newspaper!

The point of view of a newspaper must be as wide as the world if it is to keep its readers properly informed of events occurring anywhere that directly or indirectly affect their interests.

It must, as well, take a long look ahead and anticipate "the shape of things to come", in order that it may promptly and fully apprise its readers of trends and developments that will bear importantly on their lives in the near or distant future.

Only insofar as people have access to clear, accurate information in all their areas of interest, can they formulate sound plans, make wise decisions, take effective actions. It is primary function of a newspaper to provide this kind of information always.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

Everyone who has any stature as a Texas writer must have at least one buried treasure experience. For example, O. Henry hunted for Spanish gold near Austin when he lived there in early manhood. And J. Frank Dobie has traversed remote regions where there are supposed to be great quantities of buried gold and silver.

Not to be outdone, the great House also has his story of lost treasure.

Not long after I resigned — (I did, too, resign) — as editor of the Ranger Times to take a place on the Fort Worth Star - Telegram, a letter arrived. The name of the writer was unknown to me but he said he knew me. The letter was mailed from Philadelphia. It was two pages long, single - spaced and unfolded quite a narrative.

"You will, of course, recall Pete the Hermit who lived out in the Ranger," the epistle began. (I could not remember anyone of such a name — in fact, I had never numbered a hermit among my circle of acquaintances.) The letter continued that the writer had, now and then, befriended Pete by giving him old magazines to read and a little money for smoking tobacco.

One day, going to visit the old man in his shack, the writer said, he found the hermit critically ill. Pete declared that he had hoarded a good deal of money and as the younger man was the only one in Ranger who had ever befriended him, the hermit wanted him to have the gold. By this time every word was an effort for his breath was growing short but Pete described the location and his listener made notes. In a few minutes, the old man had died.

His "heir," could not immediately get away to dig up the treasure; then his father became seriously ill and he was summoned east. The father died and the son had to take over the operation of the business. That was some years before and he had never had time to return to Texas.

Then he thought about me as he had read in the Ranger paper

(which he still took) that I had gone to work in Fort Worth and he was now offering me one-third of the hoard (which amounted to $13,000) if I would dig it up. A map was enclosed. The spot was only a dozen miles or so from Fort Worth. It was near Mary's Creek and there were other landmarks. The distance to be paced from a boulder was given. It seemed a simple matter to find the location.

However, there were one or two factors which caused me to wonder. One was, as already mentioned, that I had no recollection of Pete the Hermit and as editor of the paper, I would verily have known, or at least know of so picturesque a character. Another puzzling feature was: Why did the hermit select a spot 75 or 80 miles from Ranger in which to hide his fortune? It would have been more reasonable for him to have chosen a place close enough that he could visit it and see that the money was safe.

I decided that someone was trying to victimize me and that, if I visited the area, I would be fired upon by my unknown correspondent and his friends who would enjoy a hearty laugh when I fled ingloriously. There was also the possibility that the landowner, not knowing anything about the matter, might fire at me as a trespasser and those bullets would be real.

Still the story could conceivably be true. One - third of $13,000 was a lot of money, especially as this was during the depression.

(Editor's Note — Did our hero seek the gold of Pete the Hermit? Read the concluding chapter of this true adventure next week -

While Fidel Is Ailing . . .

The pressures of dictatorship have apparently affected the health of Cuba's Fidel Castro. His doctors have called for complete rest from his duties as head of the Cuban revolutionary state.

In his stead will be Raul Castro, brother of Fidel, an anti-American leader of the government.

It could mean an even tougher attitude toward the American government.

A power fight may be developing for control of the Cuban leadership. Ernesto Guevara, the director of the Cuban National Bank, is applying his strong influence in the Cuban arena.

With Fidel bed ridden for the time and brother Raul and Guevara vying for leadership, even temporarily, things in Cuba may develop along the power lines typical of the Soviet Union for the past seven years since Stalin's death.

Internal turmoil in Cuba is apparent. Even this week, a Houston newspaper reporter found that a buyer was seeking American lubricating oil for use in Cuba. This suggests the shortage of vital materials in that restless island.

If Fidel Castro were out of the picture just long enough for either Raul or Guevara to enjoy the taste of full authority, he might not make it back to the top of the Cuban hierarchy. It is known to happen in "dictatorships."

Half - Million In Melons . .

We note that the Rockdale area is producing melons in increasing volume and buyers opine that more Milam acreage could go into the profitable production of melons.

A story in the Rockdale Reporter last week reported a half-million dollar crop this year. And 50 percent more melons could be sold in that area.

This record indicates another asset of Milam County, the sandy soil of the east part of the county. Melons and other truck crops can be produced and marketed effectively.

Success in this field would precipitate development of local industry in the form of packing or canning plants.

It is another reminder of the value of full development of local resources which boost the economy.

As the story goes, "one thing leads to another." In this case, it could mean more income for area farmers and produce growers and new jobs in related industries.

It will be interesting to watch this success story grow.

Lampasas Finds Factor 3

A new factor for number of persons per household has come out of a recount of the census in Lampasas.

That South Central Texas town called for a recount when the preliminary census showed a total of 5020, considerably under what their anticipated population was.

The new census check showed a household average of three persons, under the nation's average of 3.4 to 3.8 persons per family unit.

A similar reaction and a similar finding resulted when Cameron's preliminary census figures were announced two months ago.

Anticipating a population figure of somewhat more than 7,000, Cameron came up with a preliminary total of 5633. Cameron too had been figuring a household average of about 3.5.

Multiplying the factor of 3 times the approximate number of households, 2,000, in Cameron city limits, the population total of 6,000 is about right.

Agencies Present Budget Request

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — About a dozen state agencies thus far have presented their budget requests for the 1961-63 biennium.

As yet, none has failed to ask for more money than it's presently getting.

Many agencies cite Texas' growing population as justification for expansion. They say, in effect, that they are in the same position as the housewife who has to put another potato in the pot to set another place at the table.

Others seek to woo state funds with a "Bread cast upon the waters" approach. They contend that money spent on developing the state's resources will come back multiplied in the form of increased state revenue.

Almost all emphasize the difficulties the luring and holding highly trained personnel at present state salaries. Some say, too, that they've been working with a too-short stick for years and need some "keep up with the times" improvements.

Budget proposals are presently being studied by the Legislative Budget Board and the Governor's budget staff. Each will make recommendations, and the final decision will be made next year by the Legislature.

With a money - short, tax - fighting session ahead, it won't be easy for anyone.

These budget requests have been added to those already under study.

STATE PARKS

An investment in state parks is an investment in the Texas tourist industry and a potentially rich source of additional funds for the state treasury.

This is the theme of the State Parks Board in asking for a $2,000,000 appropriation for the next two years. This is almost double the present spending level.

Of this million - dollar - a - year appropriation, the Board $300,000 a year for administration.

Texas, says park director Bill Collins, spends less on its state parks than Rhode Island. He cited figures showing that Texas would get $81,000,000 a year more in tax revenue if each out - of - state visitor stayed in the state one more day.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE

A bigger budget is asked by the General Land Office and Veterans Land Board to assure the state's realizing full value from the resources of state - owned lands.

A two - year budget of $3,042,339 is asked.

Land Office noted the state now has clear title to 8,000 square miles of tidelands. It wants to employ three oil scouts and a geological director to explore the development of the tidelands' mineral resources. Altogether, 29 new land office employees are being asked.

Land Office claims that for every dollar it has spent the past 22 years, $90.18 has been returned to the state treasury in revenue.

AGRICULTURE

Complexities of increasingly scientific farming put greater demands on the State Department of Agriculture, says Commissioner John C. White.

His "sink or swim" budget request is for $3,061,421 for the coming two year period. This compares with a $1930,966 appropriation for the present period.

White said the "chemical revolution" in agriculture today puts heavy responsibilities on his department. He also asked for more equipment and more salaries for personnel to check weights and measures.

HIGHWAYS

State Highway Department is asking for a two - year allocation of $698,600,000.

Of this, $348,300,000 would be for the 1961 - 62 period; $350,000,000 for the 1962 - 63 period. This compares with 337,000,000 spent by the Highway Department in 1959.

Most of the highway revenue comes from special earmarked sources, such as the gasoline tax, license fees, etc. Department is asking $600,000 from the general revenue fund to be used for tourist advertising.

GAME AND FISH

Game and Fish Commission is asking for what it calls a "state quo" budget, except for salary raises for some of its top technical personnel.

Commission is asking for $12,034,945 for the coming two - year period compared to $11,593,651 for the present biennium.

Executive Director Howard Dodgen declared the commission's top echelon employees are "grossly underpaid" for highly trained persons, some with master's degrees.

Amendments To Be Voted On At Nov. Election

Texas voters should look to the month of November when the General Election will be held.

STATE COLLEGES

Three colleges, East Texas State, Stephen F. Austin State and Sam Houston State Teachers College, have told the Commission on Higher Education they need more money.

Expected enrollment increases, need for higher faculty salaries and need to lower the student - teacher ratio were cited as reasons for the requests.

East Texas is asking $2,446,555 for the first year, $2,547,125 for the second year of the 1961 - 63 period. This compares with a present annual budget of $1,676,424.

Stephen F. Austin asks $2,063,719 the first year, $2,048,603 the second, compared to the present $1,244,370 a year.

Sam Houston wants $2,970,261 the first year, $2,992,190 the second. Present annual spending is $2,040,677.

These requests, along with all those from state - supported colleges and universities, will be studied and screened by the Higher Education Commission before a recommendation is presented to legislative and executive budget officials.

WHERE TO GET IT

With new spending requests piling up, the search for more money - making plans is ranging far and wide.

Four board - based tax plans are being considered by tax hunting sub - committee of the Governor's State Finance Advisory Commission.

They are: (1) a payroll tax, paid half by employers, half by employees; (2) a utilities customers tax adding a percentage to all utility bills; (3) a business activities tax which would combine some of the features of payroll, gross receipts and corporate income taxes and (4) a transfer which would be similar to a sales tax.

Other ideas suggested to the panel include higher taxes on liquor and beer, sales tax on soft drinks and restaurant meals and a tax on sporting events.

There will be much pre - election campaigning and ballyhoo by both Democratic and Republican national candidates. And, because of the publicity in the press and TV interested voters will be afforded ample opportunity to study the various candidates and their respective platforms.

At the same time Texans will again be called upon to amend their Constitution, but the four propositions which will be submitted for approval or rejection are not likely to attract as much attention as the candidates.

Nevertheless, these amendments should be carefully studied by every voter, because each involves matters of finance even though the specific subject matter of the amendments is unrealized. The amendments will be headed as follows: "PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1960."

Amendment No. 1 would authorize the Legislature to create a Hospital District including Lamar and Hidalgo Counties and County Commissioners' Precinct No. 4 of Comanche County.

Amendment No. 2 would increase to three and one half per cent the maximum permissible interest rate on bonds hereafter issued by Veteran's Land Board.

Amendment No. 3 would allow an annual salary for Members of the Legislature of not to exceed $4000 per year, and a per diem allowance of not more than $12.00 per day for the first 120 days only of each Regular Session, and for 30 days of each Special Session of the Legislature. The Regular Session would be limited to 140 days.

Amendment No. 4 would give the Legislature authority to classify loans and lenders, license and regulate lenders, define interest and fix maximum rates of interest.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Study The Platforms Of Both Parties First, Then Make Up Your Mind

Dear editor:

A high - brow friend of mine asked me how I'm going to vote in the Presidential election this fall and before I had a chance to tell him it wasn't any of his business he said, "Now the intelligent way is to study the platforms of both parties first, then make up your mind." Where upon he handed me a copy of both and said to take them home and read them.

For the first time in my life, I felt like farming instead of reading.

One of the platforms has over 10,000 words in it, the other one over 20,000 and the prose in both is not what you'd call immoral literature. In fact, it sounds like it was written by the same people who wrote some of those nominating speeches at the conventions, and I got to thinking, if it was a requirement that you had to read both platforms all the way through before you could vote, I figure less than 2 per cent of the population would qualify.

But instead of working, I laid the platforms aside and picked up a newspaper and the first thing I ran into was an article that said the US Treasury is paying off part of its debt.

It went on to explain the Treasury will pay off in cash over 10 billion dollars of federal securities maturing next month and this sounds like good news, until the article further down explained that at the same time it will borrow an additional 9 billion dollars. This means it actually will pay off about one billion dollars of its debt, out of a total of 29 billion dollars still owed.

As I understand this, me and the United States Treasury are in about the same shape. I don't mind paying off a note, if I can turn around and borrow some more to make up the hole the repayment left.

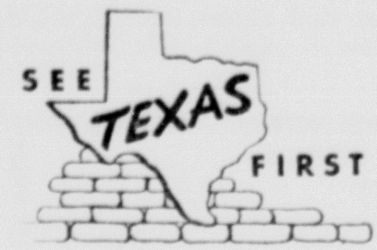

I'll let somebody else read the platforms. What I want to learn is more about this borrowing technique.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Fort Worth Has the Time

Texans have a big time.

They also have a big timepiece. Fact of the matter is, it's the world's largest. It's the clock that's atop the 30 - story Continental Bank Building in Fort Worth.

Time is controlled by a microwave radio from the U. S. Observatory in Washington, D. C.

The clock itself is five stories high. It weighs 77 tons and the numerals are so large - 25 feet high and nine feet wide - that the clock can be read from a distance of five miles.

Gonzales Honors Flag

A plaque commemorating the making of the first battle flag of Texas hangs on the walls of the museum at Gonzales, in South Texas, the town where the flag was made.

It was the first flag on which the now famous "lone star" was used.

This flag carried the words "Come and Take It" in answer to the Mexican Army's demand for return of the Gonzales cannon. The cannon had been given to the Texans by the Mexicans for defense against the Indians.

URGENT ANNOUNCEMENT

August 1 Deadline To Report Taxes Withheld For June

Austin District Director of Internal Revenue R. L. Phinney reminded employers today that August 1 is the deadline for reporting and paying income and social security taxes withheld for the calendar quarter ended June 30.

Phinney said employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability for that period, and mail it, along with full payment of taxes due, to Internal Revenue Service, Austin.

He said employers who do not have a copy of Circular E, "Employers Tax Guide" may obtain it from any local IRS office. This publication contains a full discussion of employment taxes together with tables and percentage methods for computing such taxes.

Phinney also said the law provides that taxpayers who made timely deposits in local authorized banks, or Federal Reserve Banks, of the taxes due, have an additional 10 days, or until August 10, to file their returns. Depository receipts must be submitted with the return, he added.

He also reminded taxpayers who are required to file quarterly Federal excise tax returns, that August 1, is the deadline for filing returns for the calendar quarter ended June 30.

Phinney said taxpayers who are liable for more than $100 of the excise taxes listed on Form 720 are required to deposit their full payments of these taxes in local authorized banks or a Federal Reserve Bank before the last day of the month following the month in which the tax liability occurred.

Taxpayers making such timely deposits have an additional 10 days or until August 10, in which to file their Forms 720, he added. He said validated Federal Depository Receipts must be submitted with the returns filed.

He added that returns should be addressed and mailed to: Internal Revenue Service, Austin.
